An Explanation of the Different Types of UNH Study Abroad Programs

UNH Managed Programs

- Directed and administered by UNH faculty either on-site or from New Hampshire
- Suitable if you would like to study abroad with other UNH students (a few programs also enroll non-UNH students)
- Courses aligned with UNH curricula, making it easy to fulfill UNH Major, Minor and/or Discovery requirements
- Some programs are restricted to certain majors and/or have additional eligibility requirements
- Offered for academic year, fall/spring semester, summer; January-term; or short-term programs during spring break and summer
- Pay UNH tuition, plus program fees and some UNH fees. Financial aid applies.

If you are interested in a UNH Managed program, please contact the program administrator directly.

UNH Exchange Programs

- A reciprocal exchange between select foreign universities to provide students from each school to directly enroll at the partner institution
- All courses, programs and services are administered and delivered by the foreign university
- Suitable if you are independent and would like a full-immersion experience
- Some programs are restricted to certain majors and/or have additional eligibility requirements
- Offered for academic year or fall/spring semester
- Pay UNH tuition, plus some UNH fees and program fees (e.g. housing). Financial aid applies.

Interested in hearing more? Contact the Center for International Education.

UNH Approved Programs

- Developed, managed and administered by professional third-party providers or universities abroad
- Suitable if you would like to study abroad with other American study abroad students (possibly some from UNH).
- Depending on the program, you take courses with American, international and/or local students.
- Program price includes additional student services, such as accommodation, excursions, and on-site support and coordination.
- Have met UNH criteria as determined by the UNH University Committee on Study Abroad
- Some programs have additional eligibility requirements
- Offered for academic year, fall, spring or summer
- No UNH tuition; instead, you pay the provider's program fees, plus some UNH fees. Financial aid applies.
